Do you have a piece of art or a photo that you'd love to mat and frame to display in your home? The process may be easier than you think. With a few simple materials, you can mat and frame your own artwork like a pro.

1

Measure your piece of art. Use a ruler to get an accurate measurement--do not estimate.

2

Choose what color mat you would like to purchase. You can opt for a color that complements the shades in your piece of art, or you can choose a neutral shade, such as beige, black or white.

3

If your artwork is a standard size, for example 4 by 6, 5 by 7, 8 by 10, it is easiest to purchase a ready-made mat. If your artwork is not a standard size, you can have a mat cut to fit your artwork at a craft or framing store.

4

Place the mat upside-down on a flat surface. Center your artwork over the mat's hole. Secure your artwork to the mat using acid-free artist's tape. Tape down just the top edges of the artwork.

5

Obtain a piece of artboard. If your artwork is a standard size, you should be able to purchase a piece of artboard that is the same size as your matted artwork. If not, purchase a large piece of artboard and use an X-acto knife or straight edge razor to cut the artboard to size.

6

If you have self-adhesive artboard, remove the backing and place it on the back of your matted artwork. If your artboard is not self-adhesive, spray one side with adhesive spray and follow the instructions above.

7

Place a heavy object, such as a book, on top of the adhered artboard. This will help secure the artboard to your matted artwork. Leave the pieces alone for a few hours to ensure the artboard adheres securely to your matted artwork.

8

Place your artwork into a frame. You can purchase standard-sized frames at most big-box stores, craft stores, or framing stores. Another option is to have a custom frame built by a framing shop.

9

Add a piece of cardboard behind your artwork to ensure a tight fit when you secure the frame (for example, by the use of hinges) to your artwork.

10

Attach any hanging materials, such as wire and screws, to the frame, if necessary. Afterward, hang your artwork on your wall.
